

Principal Pipings

Vol. 68, Issue 7 February, 2013

Greetings from the dean

Hello AGO Friends,

I hope your new year is off to a wonderful beginning! We certainly started 2013 in strong fashion with a well-attended social and interesting program by Schuyler Robinson, followed closely by Alan Morrison's outstanding recital that we co-sponsored with the Louisville AGO chapter. I hope you were able to attend one of these events.

Now it's time to look towards one of our prime educational pursuits of the year, our Pedals, Pipes and Pizza event for young piano students on February 23rd. Robert Whitaker, our Education Chair, has done an outstanding job to put together this program which will be held at First Presbyterian Church in Lexington. You can find more details in this newsletter. If you know of a student age 11-17 or thereabouts who might be interested in PPP, please help us spread the word. Robert has designed a great flier (available on our chapter website) that you can use to encourage the next generation of organists to attend this FREE event!

Your executive committee is beginning to plan next year's programming, and we have already received some offers for potential events. This is your chapter, so let me or any of the other executive committee members know what types of programs would be useful for you and we will take those ideas into account as we plan.

Jane

Members in the News

We send Dr. Jeff Jones, formerly organist/director at The Presbyterian Church, Danville our good wishes as he undertakes his new position at First Presbyterian Church, Savannah, GA this month. You can view the church's website at www.savannahfpc.org. Click on "worship", then "music ministry". There is a full description of the church's recent Schleuter Organ (2007), 3 manuals/47 ranks complete with photos of the organ construction and a link to the company website.

In the interim before a search is undertaken, Dr. Wesley Roberts will serve as interim organist along with Joan Stansbury, interim choir director. Newcomer to the area, Dr. Jan-Piet Knijff, FAGO, Dutch organist now located in Australia and presently in UK graduate work in Classics/Latin, will serve several weeks interim through Easter, until Dr. Roberts can assume the interim position. -- Schuyler Robinson, professional concerns
